Date of Birth (Dat Thanh Luong): March 4, 1960

Date of Death: October 11, 2016 (56 years old)

Dear Ms. Sherwin,

I am in receipt of your correspondence and materials regarding the death of Mr. Dat Thanh Luong while in custody of Alameda County Behavioral Health Care Services (BHCS) and the California Department of State Hospitals (DSH), awaiting transfer to Napa State Hospital or any other hospital pursuant to court order. I have reviewed the documentation accompanying your correspondence, including Mr. Luong's medical records and the depositions of personnel responsible for his care while in custody and up to the time of his murder by his cellmate Aref Popal, as well as other information provided in the course of discovery.

In addition to my review of these materials, I have 1) reviewed the scientific literature on the risk of victimization among inmates with mental illness; 2) analyzed the Direct Admissions Wait List for California inmates with commitment orders from 2004-18, and 3) performed a life expectancy analysis to quantify the reduction in Mr. Luong's life expectancy that resulted from his premature death while in custody.

Accordingly, the purpose of this report is to 1) describe the epidemiologic evidence demonstrating increased risk of harm among mentally ill persons in custody (like Mr. Luong) versus similarly situated individuals without mental illness, as well as the evidence that the risk accumulates with time; 2) describe an analysis of inmate commitment to hospital transfer (CTT) wait times in the California corrections system generally, and Alameda County specifically, and 3) provide a life expectancy analysis for Mr. Luong in order estimate his survival had had not been murdered while in custody.

The central question addressed by this report is whether the nature and duration of Mr. Luong's incarceration during his CTT wait time of 81 days served as a substantial contributing cause of his death.

My methods and opinions in this case pertain to the fields of forensic medicine and epidemiology. Forensic medicine refers to the intersection of medicine and law, and in particular medicolegal investigation of causation. Epidemiology is defined as the scientific study of the cause of disease, injury, and death in populations, including prevalence, risk, and incidence in specific populations. The scientific field that dictates how probabilities may be inferred from epidemiologic data and methods and how the inferences can be used to assess the cause of injury, disease, or death in individuals in a legal setting is forensic epidemiology. Forensic epidemiology provides the scientific basis for the evaluation of causation, to the extent that probability or likelihood of causation may be evaluated. The methods applied in this report are consistent with those outlined in the Reference Guide on Epidemiology, from the Reference Manual on Scientific Evidence, published by the Federal Judicial Center and the National Academies of Science (3rd Edition, 2011), as well as in the text Forensic Epidemiology: Principles and Practice, published by Elsevier (2016).

Qualifications:

My field of expertise is forensic medicine and forensic epidemiology. I hold the following academic degrees: a doctor of medicine degree (Med.Dr.) from Umeå University in Sweden, a doctor of philosophy (Ph.D.) in public health/ epidemiology from Oregon State University, and a master of public health (MPH) in epidemiology and biostatistics, also from Oregon State University, i.a. I have completed a 2-year post-doctoral fellowship in forensic pathology at Umeå University in Sweden, and am an affiliate medical examiner with the Allegheny County Medical Examiner's office, a fellow of the Pathology section of the American Academy of Forensic Sciences (AAFS), and the vice-chair of the standards board for medicolegal death investigation for the AAFS. I am a Fulbright fellow, and hold a 3-year appointment as a Fulbright Specialist in the field of Forensic Medicine with the U.S. Department of State (2017-20).

I serve as a tenured Associate Professor of Forensic Medicine at Maastricht University, and an Affiliate Professor of Psychiatry at Oregon Health and Science University School of Medicine, where I have taught courses for the past 20 years in forensic medicine, forensic epidemiology, and medical causation. I have also held an appointment as an Adjunct Professor of Forensic Medicine and Epidemiology at the Institute of Forensic Medicine, Faculty of Health Sciences, Aarhus University, Aarhus, Denmark from 2005-2017.

I serve or have served as an associate editor or editorial board member of 14 scientific peer-reviewed journals and have published approximately 200 scientific papers, abstracts, book chapters and books, including the recent text for Elsevier, Forensic Epidemiology: Principles and Practice (2016). My scientific publications have been cited by other authors more than 2,100 times.

I have provided testimony in more than 350 civil and criminal trials in state and Federal courts throughout the United States, Canada, Australia, and Europe. Please see my CV for further details.

RE: Luong v Alameda County

August 6, 2019

Mr. Luong was a 56-year-old Asian man with an extensive history of schizophrenia. He stood 5'4" and weighed approximately 132 pounds.

Mr. Luong began his incarceration in January of 2016, after being charged with two counts of assault with a deadly weapon. Mr. Luong underwent a behavioral health screening where it was the opinion of the treating psychologist that he had significant impairment due to his schizophrenia and known noncompliance of taking prescribed medications. Early in his incarceration, the judge presiding over his criminal case ordered several psychiatric and psychological evaluations of him.

During his time in the custody of Alameda County Behavioral Health Care Services (BHCS) from January through October of 2016, Mr. Luong was noted by medical professionals to be responding to internal stimuli, and that he was delusional and occasionally argumentative. He was physically assaulted by his cellmates on multiple occasions. Mr. Luong's medical records, available to DSH personnel for review, document his worsening psychiatric status, as well as the inadequate care he was receiving in jail.

For example, in February 2016, Dr. Rinata Wagle (psychiatry) visited Mr. Luong, who had been recently assaulted by his cellmate, and found him to be psychotic. Dr. Wagle subsequently prescribed him Risperdal, an antipsychotic. For an unknown reason, the nurse in charge of Mr. Luong's care did not receive the order, and Mr. Luong was not given his prescribed medication until at least one week later.

In the following months, Mr. Luong was alternately self-reporting medication compliance and noncompliance, although at the end of May 2016, a health care worker noted that no one had been monitoring his medication compliance while he was in custody.

In the months between January and October of 2016, Mr. Luong was visited 32 times by medical doctors, Marriage and Family Therapist (MFT) professionals and interns, and Licensed Clinical Social Workers (LCSW). Of these 32 appointments, Mr. Luong refused to be seen for 7 of them. In the instances of refusal, there appeared to be no attempt to reschedule the appointment, but rather Mr. Luong was left alone until the next scheduled appointment. For example, Mr. Luong was seen on March 29, 2016, then refused to be seen for his April 14 appointment, refused again for the next one on May 11, and was finally seen again on May 26, 2016.

Mr. Luong was assaulted by his cellmate a second time during this period of time on April 15, 2016. Based on this history, two months (March to May 2016) elapsed between medical visits for Mr.

Luong, a schizophrenic inmate who was historically noncompliant with medication and medical evaluations, and who had been assaulted multiple times by his cellmates.

At the end of May 2016, Mr. Luong had reportedly refused food and water for at least 48-72 hours due to paranoid delusions that his food had been poisoned.

On June 1, 2016 during a medical check, Kathleen Rietta-Wong, MFT (Marriage and Family Therapy), noted that Mr. Luong's arm was dark purple and swollen. This finding, in conjunction with his history of noncompliance with medication, recent refusal to eat or drink, erratic behavior (such as standing on the toilet frequently), response to internal stimuli, multiple assaults by his cellmates, and his refusal of treatment for scabies, led Ms. Rietta-Wong to issue a 5150 code for Mr. Luong.

A 5150 code initiates an involuntary emergent psychiatric treatment transfer for people who are perceived as gravely disabled or a danger to themselves or others as a result of mental illness.

After 10 days in treatment at a hospital, Mr. Luong had become stable on a medication regimen of 3 milligrams (mg) Risperdal (antipsychotic) in the morning and 4 mg Risperdal at night, combined with 1 mg Lorazepam (sedative), and 50 mg Benadryl (for extrapyramidal symptoms, commonly produced by antipsychotic medication).

Sixteen days after returning from treatment (June 27, 2016), Mr. Luong was reportedly stable. With no stated rationale, Dr. Mohinder Kaur (psychiatry) reduced Mr. Luong's prescriptions from 7 to 2 mg Risperdal once a day (a 71% reduction) and discontinued the prescription for Lorazepam. Ten days later, Mr. Luong was again noncompliant with taking his prescribed medications.

During criminal proceedings on July 8, 2016, Mr. Luong was deemed incompetent to stand trial by Judge Michael Gaffey, who ordered DSH's Conditional Release Program ("CONREP") to make a placement recommendation for him.

On July 22, 2016, Judge Dan Grimmer of the California Superior Court for Alameda ordered that Mr. Luong be committed to the Department of Mental Health at the Napa State Hospital or any other hospital. The judge also ordered that the Executive Director of the hospital write a progress report on Mr. Luong's recovery in the hospital within 90 days of the commitment order.

In the days following the court order, Mr. Luong was found to be markedly decompensated (deteriorated); he had refused medication for approximately one month by this time, was nonresponsive to the medical staff, and was reportedly "gravely disabled." He was again assaulted by his cellmate in mid-July. On July 27, 2016, Mr. Luong was again issued a 5150 transfer for involuntary psychiatric treatment.

After returning from 3 days of hospital treatment on August 2, 2016, Mr. Luong's status was improved. He was responsive to the staff and was compliant with his medication and food intake. The following day he was prescribed 2 mg Risperdal in the morning, 3 mg Risperdal at night, and 50 mg Benadryl.

The rest of the month of August, Mr. Luong refused his medication off-and-on, and was confused and delusional during his check-ups. The NSH waiting list stated that Mr. Luong's admission packet was complete on August 22, 2016. Any DSH personnel who had reviewed his medical records at the time would have observed the obvious manifestations Mr. Luong's psychiatric illness and need for emergent psychiatric care.

He was again assaulted by his cellmate (for a fourth time), and on his September 2, 2016 appointment, was noted to be recovering from a black eye from the assault.

On September 7, 2016, Judge Dan Grimmer, who had ordered Mr. Luong to be committed to a psychiatric hospital 47 days earlier, issued an order to DSH Director Pam Ahlin to transport Mr. Luong to Napa State Hospital or another proper facility, or be held in contempt of the court.

Mr. Luong was not transferred to a hospital and remained in the custody of BHCS and DSH at Alameda County's Santa Rita Jail for another 34 days (for a total of 81 days after the commitment order and 95 days after the finding of incompetence) before he was killed by his cellmate on October 11, 2016.

The inmate who killed Mr. Luong was Aref Popal, who became Mr. Luong's cellmate on October 7, 2016. Mr. Popal had been arrested for battery and had a history of mental illness and possible dementia. He had recently been separated from other inmates due to his aggression. On October 8, 2016, Mr. Popal was considered a candidate for 5150 transfer for grave disability and danger to self or others and was considered "vulnerable and fragile." Neighboring inmates noted banging and shouting coming from Mr. Luong's room from the first day they were celled together.

On the night before his death, October 10, 2016, neighboring inmates heard shouting and banging from Mr. Luong's cell. One interviewed inmate described the fighting as lasting multiple hours in the early morning of October 11, 2016, and said that he heard Mr. Luong say, "Hey man, stop."

Julia Sherwin, Esq.

RE: Luong v Alameda County

On the day that he was killed Mr. Luong rang the emergency call button to reach security. The call was answered by Technician Martinez. Mr. Luong reportedly recited numbers on the intercom, and Technician Martinez decided to “lock out” the emergency call button for Mr. Luong’s cell at around 03:15 am. According to Mr. Popal, Mr. Luong tried to use the emergency call button many times during their fight, which is visible to security, even when in its “locked out” state. When the shift transfer for security occurred that morning, Technician Enzmann, who took over for Technician Martinez, saw that the call button had been “locked out,” but did not ask why, and left it on silent.

Deputies repeatedly failed to complete their regular cell checks throughout that morning.

Around 08:50 am Deputy Christiansen and a group of nurses entered the unit where Mr. Luong’s cell was located to distribute medicine to the inmates. One inmate approached Deputy Christiansen and told him that someone in Mr. Luong’s cell was having a medical emergency. The same inmate claimed he had seen Mr. Popal standing over Mr. Luong with his hands around Mr. Luong’s neck.

When paramedics arrived on scene at 08:53 am, they found that Mr. Luong was dead and his skin was cool to the touch, indicating that he had been dead for a matter of hours ..

The cause of Mr. Luong’s death was determined to be asphyxiation and strangulation, and the manner of death was deemed homicide.

Literature review:

It is well established that correctional institutions are dangerous places, and prison and jail inmates are prone to various forms of victimization, including violent injury and death. Underreported instances of physical assault, threats, and verbal abuse are far more common than more highly publicized cases of murder and sexual assault in correctional facilities.<sup>1</sup> In a 1998 study of prison violence the authors found that in addition to the somewhat “more distant” threat of sexual assault and murder, more “mundane victimization” (such as physical assault, threats, verbal abuse, robbery, and exclusion) are what define the prison experience for many inmates.<sup>2</sup>

It is also well established that inmates who are mentally ill are more likely to be victimized than the general population in correctional settings. In a study published in 2007 the authors found that male inmates with a mental disorder were nearly 3 times more likely to suffer sexual victimization than inmates without a mental illness.<sup>3</sup> In addition to increased risk of inmate-on-inmate violence, mentally ill prisoners are more likely to be subjected to inconsistent medical evaluations and unreliable monitoring of medication, food, and water intake as they would be outside of prison such as in a hospital or care facility.

When an inmate’s mental health status has deteriorated to the point of triggering a court-issued commitment to a psychiatric medical hospital or other facility, or the inmate had been deemed incompetent to stand trial (IST) by a court, this designates a point in time where the inmate is recognized as being at elevated risk for victimization by other prisoners, self-harm, and inadequate medical care, relative to the safety and care of the hospital, which is the inmate’s intended destination. The longer the commitment to transfer time (CTT) the more risk accumulates for the inmate.

There are various factors that can magnify the risk of injury or deterioration for a mentally ill inmate during a prolonged CTT. These factors can interact with each other over time such that their total effect is greater than the sum of each individual factor. As an example, an inmate who receives an inadequate level of necessary medical/ psychiatric care (i.e. medication) while waiting for transfer is prone to deterioration of his mental health function, potentially resulting in erratic behavior, inability to follow instructions, and inability to comply with medication regimens. If such an individual is then put in close proximity with another inmate, AND the inmate has a history of mental illness, AND the inmate has a history of violence or aggression toward others, the combined effect would be a geometrically increasing (i.e. “snowballing”) risk of a catastrophic event. All of the above factors were present, obvious, and accumulating during the months leading up to Mr. Luong’s murder by Mr. Popal. All of these harms would have been minimized, and Mr. Luong’s death would have been avoided, had Mr. Luong been transferred to a hospital, per court order, sooner than the 81 days he was left to languish with inadequate medical care in a cell with a homicidal cellmate.

Direct admission (CTT) waiting list analysis

The next issue to be addressed in my analysis is how the state of California complies with judicial commitment orders, and how Alameda county's performance for commitment to transfer wait (CTT) fits within the other counties in California. The purpose of this part of the analysis is to determine whether Mr. Luong was at less, same, or increased risk of harm due to excessive CTT wait times because he was incarcerated in Alameda versus other counties in California.

In order to perform this analysis, I examined the Napa State Hospital direct admission waiting list provided as Exhibit 3 (dated 6-3-19) to Dana White's deposition. I first translated the photocopied document into a spreadsheet and analyzed the results for descriptive statistics, as well as trends. The waiting list contained the names of inmates, the status of the packet (complete or not), the county and California penal code for each inmate, the date that the court submitted a commitment order, the date the inmate was placed on the wait list (ranging from 2004-18), the date the packet was approved, the date the inmate was admitted to the hospital, as well as a column for other relevant information, such as where the inmate was transferred (if not to Napa State Hospital if the inmate was released by a judge, and other information.

The data were analyzed for median commitment to transfer (CTT) wait times between commitment order and date of admission for the entire State of California, and also by individual county. Additionally, the time interval between the date of the commitment order and the date the inmate was approved for transfer (secondary to hospital availability) was also examined. The median was used to indicate the number of days by which 50% of the inmates had not yet been transferred, and thus 50% had been transferred (see Table 1 in the Appendix). The median weight time was then multiplied by the number of affected inmates (see Table 2 in the Appendix), so that the total amount of inmate time in CTT could be determined for the timeframe of interest, by county. The date range for which there was complete information for the date of commitment and the date of hospital admission was July 2011 through July 2018. For dates prior to July 2011, when the date of commitment was not available, the date of submission of the packet of materials necessary for transfer was used instead.

Results

The median CTT was 77 days for the State of California over the 15 years of data analyzed. In Alameda county the median CTT was 7 days longer, at 84 days. The shortest median CTT was for Plumas County (43 days, only pertaining to 8 inmates), and the longest median was for Imperial County (269 days, only affecting 1 inmate). See Table 1 in the Appendix.

Julia Sherwin, Esq.

RE: Luong v Alameda County

Over the 15 years there were CTT wait times records for 9,529 inmates who had received a court order for transfer, and their total time waiting for transfer to a hospital was 713,048 days, or 1,954 years. Thus, each year in the state of California, inmates who have been committed to Napa State Hospital spend an average of 130 years at increased risk of harm due to extraordinarily long CTT wait times, relative to other states. For comparison, CTT wait times are restricted to no more than 7 days in Oregon and Washington, a 91% reduction relative to California CTT wait times.

Alameda County had the 7th largest number of inmates on the list (554), but because of longer than median wait times the county contributed the 3rd largest number of days to the total CTT burden in the State of California (45,982 days, or 126 years).

The median time between commitment order date and approval was 21 days statewide. In comparison, Mr. Luong's commitment order date was July 22, 2016 and the date he was approved was August 30, 2016, for a total of 40 days before he was approved. I have not found an explanation as to why Mr. Luong's case took nearly twice as long to be approved as the median case in the California corrections data described herein.

From July 2011 through July 2018 there were complete commitment and admission data for >5,400 inmates, and these data were used to plot the year to year change in average CTT wait times. The chart below shows this relationship for all of the CTT times, with a trend line (the red line):

Julia Sherwin, Esq.

It's difficult to see the annual change in the number of CTT wait days in the chart above, so the chart below is expanded around the trendline to better illustrate the change over time:

Julia Sherwin, Esq.

RE: Luong v Alameda County

It is readily apparent in the enlarged section of the chart above that the average CTT wait time has increased from July of 2011 to July of 2018 from 75 to 89 days, or 19%.

The finding of increasing wait times is consistent with documentation demonstrating an annual increase in the number of court-issued Orders to Show Cause (OSC) due to failure to timely admit IST patients from 2016 through 2018. In fiscal year 2016 (July 1, 2016, to June 30, 2017), courts issued 1,975 OSCs to the State. The number increased to 2,346 in 2017, and to 2,810 in 2018.

These findings provide irrefutable evidence that Mr. Luong's incarceration in Alameda County put him increased risk of harm due to excessive CTT wait times generally in the California corrections systems, and in Alameda county specifically.

Life expectancy analysis

At the time of his death, I estimate that Mr. Luong had a life expectancy of at least 17.8 additional years to the age of 74.4. This reduction from the normal life expectancy of 30.8 years is due to Mr. Luong's schizophrenia, which resulted in a loss of 13.0 years from the national average, applicable to Mr. Luong's demographic group. The following is the explanation for this conclusion.

According to the CDC's 2017 life tables, the life expectancy for the average 56.6 year-old man is an additional 24.9 years, to the age of 81.5. This value is, however, an underrepresentation of Mr. Luong's unadjusted life expectancy at birth because it does not factor in his status as a naturalized American male of Eastern Asian descent. Although Mr. Luong was born in Vietnam, he moved to the United States as a young man and became a naturalized American citizen in 1985 at the age of 25. Foreign-born Asian-American men outlive white male Americans by an average of nearly six years.<sup>4,5,6,7</sup> For this reason, in the following analysis I used the CDC's 2017 life tables for white males and adjusted for the additional 5.9 years of life that the average Asian-American male is expected to survive. Therefore, prior to adjusting for Mr. Luong's schizophrenia and other comorbidities, he had an unadjusted life expectancy of 30.8 years to the age of 87.4. Below is a brief review of the epidemiologic literature used to reach my life expectancy projection for Mr. Luong.

Life expectancy in persons with Schizophrenia:

In 2007, Saha, et al. explored the distribution of standardized mortality ratios (SMRs) for people with schizophrenia.<sup>8</sup> The meta-analysis (study of studies) included 37 studies detailing 561 SMRs for different causes of deaths from 25 countries using data published in the period 1980–2006. Compared to the general population, the median SMR for all persons for all-cause mortality was 2.58. The analysis showed no sex difference in SMR. However, the differential mortality gap was shown to be increasing over the past few decades. The authors hypothesized that this difference results from the overall improvement in medical treatment and lifestyle experienced by the general population having not been experienced by persons with schizophrenia.

I applied the 2.58 SMR to the 2017 CDC life table for white males adjusted for the Asian race and found that the resultant life expectancy for a 56.6-year-old Asian male was 22.6 additional years to the age of 79.2.

In 2014, Reininghaus et al. described a study of a large cohort of individuals with first episode psychosis compared with the general population.<sup>9</sup> The study utilized the AESOP-10 data to identify individuals with first-episode psychosis who presented to mental health services within defined catchment areas in Southeast London and Nottinghamshire, England. The total of 557 eligible cases contributed 5183.9 person-years. Patients were followed until death, or until the end of follow-up (December 12, 2012). The mean length of follow-up was 10.0 years. For all identified deaths, principal underlying causes of death were determined and grouped into 3 broad categories: natural causes, unnatural causes, and unknown causes.

Compared to the general population, all-cause SMR was 3.6. Illicit drug use was associated with an increased risk of all-cause mortality (adj. RR 2.31 [95% CI: 1.06–5.03]). After applying the all-cause mortality ratio of 3.6 to the same CDC life table used previously, I found the life expectancy for a 56.6 year old Asian male was 76.6 years (20.0 additional years). However, the study also found that unnatural cause mortality was very high (SMR 13.3) compared to natural-cause mortality (SMR 1.7). Authors noted that suicide accounted for the majority of unnatural cause mortality. An analysis of life expectancy using the very high SMR of 13.3 for a 56.6 year old Asian male resulted in an additional 11.9 years to the age of 68.5.

In 2016, Leng, et al. designed a study to estimate life expectancies for a large cohort of people with schizophrenia.<sup>10</sup> They used the National Health Insurance Research Database and the National Mortality Registry of Taiwan to establish a cohort of people with schizophrenia between 2000-2010 and followed up to 2011. The final cohort included 34,658 patients between the ages of 20-64 who were followed until death or until the end of the follow-up period (end of 2011). Survival function was estimated through Kaplan-Meier's method and extrapolated throughout life.

Table 2 from the study, reproduced on the following page, provides a summary of the life expectancy, expected years of life lost, life-time healthcare costs, and cost per life year of participants stratified by age and gender that resulted from the analysis. Compared to the general population, males aged 20-29 had the highest years of life lost, 15.17 years, and dropped to approximately 6-7 years if onset at the age of 30-59. Most relevant to Mr. Luong, the expected years of life remaining for an Asian man aged 56.6 was 18.4 years, giving an expected lifespan of 75. This represents a reduction of about 6.9 years of life expectancy in the same male. Applying this 6.9 year reduction to the adjusted life tables for a naturalized Asian-American male resulted in a life expectancy for a 56.6 year-old male to 74.6 years.

In 2017, Hjorthoj, et al. published a systematic review and meta-analysis of the literature regarding years of potential life lost and life expectancy in schizophrenia.<sup>11</sup> The authors summarized the results of 11 studies describing 302,691 patients with schizophrenia. The overall weighted average for years of potential life lost to schizophrenia was 14.5 years [95% CI: 11.2-17.8]. Applying this estimate to the life table used in my analysis, I found the average life expectancy for an Asian man aged 56.6 was an additional 16.3 years to the age of 72.9.

Life Expectancy Summary:

None of the above-described studies are exactly applicable to Mr. Luong's circumstances. For instance, many patients who suffer with schizophrenia have poor health habits that lead to increased BMI and obesity related illnesses. Mr. Luong was a thin man (BMI 22.7) with no evidence of cardiovascular disease, diabetes, or other comorbidities. Additionally, Mr. Luong had no known history of substance abuse, another disease that affects many people with schizophrenia. Mr. Luong was diagnosed with schizophrenia later in life and therefore had already survived longer than many people with schizophrenia included in the studies described above. Most critically, Mr. Luong had a caring family who was interested in his health, a factor that reduces the risk of unnatural-cause mortality in people with schizophrenia.<sup>910</sup> For the reasons stated above, the estimations of life expectancy in this analysis are likely an underrepresentation of Mr. Luong's true life expectancy.

The condition and life expectancy of Mr. Luong is most probably somewhere in the middle of the values described above. For this reason, in order to arrive at the most reliable estimate for Mr. Luong's life expectancy, I averaged the above results from my life table analyses. My analysis of the literature on survival after diagnosis of schizophrenia that is adjusted to Mr. Luong's age, sex, and nationality indicates a likely average survival of 17.8 additional years to the age of 74.4. This estimate represents a loss of 13.0 years from the national average.

The preceding opinions were given as reasonable medical and scientific probabilities based on my knowledge, experience, and training in the fields of forensic medicine and forensic epidemiology, and a review of the relevant literature, studies, and available records and data.

I reserve the right to amend any of my opinions should new information come to light, including the opinions disclosed by defense experts.

2019 FEE SCHEDULE

Please make checks payable to: Forensic Research + Analysis, Inc. Tax id # 68-0551731

Retainer: Initial file review & initial phone consultation: minimum of $5,200 retainer covering the first 8 hours is due before work begin, with the first $2600 (4 hours) of the retainer becoming non-refundable once received. Please maintain timely communication with our office as case progresses and charges are incurred. Please note that the hiring attorney is ultimately responsible for all bills incurred by their case.

Other in-office services: All services rendered by Dr. Freeman (i.e. reports, responses, conferences, analysis, research, etc.) not specifically outlined in this fee agreement will be billed at a rate of $650 per hour, prorated in quarter hour increments. Monies received in our office are not refunded once paid unless an accounting error has occurred on our part or there has been an overpayment on an invoice that cannot be applied to another charge incurred. Requests for written reports must be put in writing by the hiring attorney with a deadline for receiving such reports given to our office as needed.

Ancillary services provided by associate scientist staff will be billed at a rate between $250-$400/hour, including but not limited to work such as medical record review, report assistance, statistical analysis, research, literature review and crash reconstruction. Data pulls/extractions service is billed at $75/hour. There is a $2500 flat fee for each data access & description from national or statewide epidemiologic database. Crash Reconstruction using HVE software is $2500, and additional animation cost to be decided. We also have video conferencing capability in our office via the internet (IP address is: 173.12.191.241) and the charge is a simple flat fee of $100 per event, not per hour.

Calendar Events: To be placed on Dr. Freeman's calendar for any meeting, phone conference, deposition, inspection, or testimony requests, the hiring attorney must communicate directly with Dr. Freeman's office (contact is Katie Smith, Executive Assistant) to determine availability and deposit requirements and to schedule their time slot. Depositions and testimony appearances cannot be calendared until deposits are received. Company policy precludes our office staff from communicating directly with opposing counsel.

For Trial testimonies, Inspections, and Depositions that require out of town travel:

Total fees are as follows, with all fees to be paid in full no later than 5 business days in advance:

1. Half day of (Portland/Vancouver area) testimony/deposition (including travel time): $6,000*
2. Full day out of town (including travel time to/from location in one business day): $9,000*
3. Full day out of town where overnight stay is necessary: $12,000*

*NOTE: Travel expenses for airfare, hotel and cab costs are to be invoiced separately.

Payment schedule for all trial (or hearing) testimony events: Events placed on calendar 3 or more months in advance require a $800 non-refundable deposit, less than 3 months but more than 1 month is $3,000 non-refundable deposit, and testimony scheduled less than 1 month in advance requires $6,000 non-refundable deposit immediately. In all cases, a total of $6,000 is due no later than 1 month in advance of event, with remaining balance due no later than 5 business days **in advance of the scheduled event.

In-Office Depositions & in office videotaped or live video testimonies:

Minimum is one hour at $850.00 ($850/hour) and must be scheduled directly through the office. Depositions are scheduled for the time reserved and prepaid only, and all fees are to be paid in full no later than 5 business days in advance. If at time of deposition, a continuance becomes necessary, this will be scheduled as Dr. Freeman's calendar allows and as permitted by local rules and agreement between counsel. Any additional charges incurred for deposition overages are billed by the half hour, triggered after 10 minutes into the half hour. The retaining attorney is responsible for ensuring timely payment of depositions requested by opposing counsel. Pre-deposition time spent on preparation is billed at $650 per hour to the hiring attorney.

Payment schedule for all in town depositions and testimonies:

One half of total fee is due as non-refundable deposit, based on the number of hours being reserved. Therefore, simply multiply $850 hourly rate times the number of hours you wish to reserve and divide in half-this is your non-refundable deposit to calendar the deposition event, based on availability.

Cancellation Policy for All Deposition or Testimony Dates scheduled on Calendar:

Depositions cancelled more than one month prior to the event will have deposits applied to other invoices on the account or may be applied to rescheduled date. Any depositions cancelled less than one month prior, but more than 5 business days in advance will have the non-refundable deposit become the cancellation fee. Depositions cancelled less than 5 business days** in advance will keep the entire fee as a cancellation fee and new fees will be required to obtain another date.

Rescheduled trial dates may carry over one half of payment to new date once, with approval of our office. Any testimony cancelling more than 5 business days in advance will incur the non-refundable deposit as the cancellation fee. Any testimony cancelling less than 5 business days** in advance will incur the full fee as a cancellation fee.

**NOTE: In the above fee schedule details, 5 business days means Monday through Friday, and does not include weekends or holidays.

(Please contact our office for travel information regarding hotels, airport and mass transit options.)

If the undersigned fails to pay the full amount of the charges within 30 days of such invoices, the unpaid amounts of such invoices shall accrue interest at a rate of 1.5% per month. Additionally, the undersigned agrees to pay all of Forensic Research & Analysis' cost of collection, including reasonable attorney fees.

My signature is an acknowledgement that I have read the above two-page fee schedule and agree to abide by same. I understand that work does not commence until this signed agreement is returned to FR&A.
